Instructions

The faculty of the College of Arts & Sciences is committed to enhancing student learning by continuous improvement of our courses and our teaching. Your answers to the following questions will be used as part of the evaluation of the course and as part of the evaluation of this instructor. Your comments to the open-ended questions are particularly useful for course improvement, as were those given by students who took this course before you. Note that your answers to these questions are confidential. After final grades are submitted, results of this survey will be shared anonymously with the instructor and the Department Head. Thank you very much for your participation in this important process.

About Yourself

Open-Ended

8

What were the most beneficial aspects of this course? (Please be specific)

(Text/Memo)

- The discussion-based classroom setting
- Reading through a small reading one at a time and discussing it. Readings that built directly on top of each other. Not having some timed test.
- The readings, they were very informative and really helped me understand the subject.
- Very eye opening and in depth class discussions.
- Bertrand Russell - by far this modern philosopher is clear to understand out of any other philosophy classes.

What are your suggestions for improving this course? (Please be specific)

(Text/Memo)

- Nothing
- N/A
- Dont assign the journal entries to be due on a friday night. I managed to get almost all of the journal entries turned in, but there were some nights where I completely forgot due to being preoccupied with plans for the weekend, especially during the spring term, since I got distracted a few times by the beautiful weather and I wouldnt be near my computer.
- Consider delaying the due dates. Since journals are due A day after class, time to thoroughly prepare is not sufficient. Not a big fan of mandatory participation - often times there is just nothing meaningful to say about certain topics. In order to desperately get daily points, the class discussions goes off tracks not related to the content.
